"We hired Israela to conduct a salary negotiation workshop for public health graduate students, many of whom already have professional experience. The workshop was fabulous for many reasons – Israela is a dynamic, knowledgeable speaker who engaged the audience and provided thoughtful, sophisticated, nuanced practical advice. She planned a very interactive workshop but was able to make spontaneous adjustments because twice as many students attended than we anticipated. Israela has great energy and was a pleasure to work with. The feedback we received from the students that attended was overwhelmingly positive."
